DAILY BRIEF — ZORAH'S DAILY HOME

YOUR DAY

Pizza lunch, a 21°C afternoon, and rain by Wednesday night

Cheshvan 23 · High near 21°C · Sunset 5:05 p.m. · Daily brief at sdltor.github.io/household-groceries/

Zorah, it is pizza day at RHA: the Week 1 lunch is pizza with fries, garlic knots, salad and milk. The morning is mild and grey, about 14°C at 7 a.m., warming to near 21°C by 2 p.m., unusually warm for November. Rain chances stay under 10% all day.

Tonight at 7 is the Nursery Coffee with Claire, as Claire Sumerlus, RHA's Head of School, continues her week of evenings with parents; Grade 6 is Wednesday and Grade 4 Thursday at 8. Expect about 16°C and dry skies at 7.

Pack umbrellas from Wednesday evening: rain is very likely Wednesday night and Thursday. Thursday brings the 9 a.m. PA meeting and a 5:30 birthday party for Jonah to attend. Friday is the first early Shabbat, with 2:30 dismissal and candles at 4:44, and Saturday's 1:30 hockey game will be near 10°C.

COOKING

Frozen dumplings turn a silky squash soup into supper, with two easy swaps for our kitchen

Food & Wine's butternut squash soup gets lemongrass, ginger, coconut milk and crisp-bottomed dumplings

The idea is simple: a bag of frozen dumplings makes a squash soup into a full weeknight dinner. Lemongrass, ginger, garlic and jalapeño steep in the broth while the squash goes very tender, about 15 to 20 minutes, then an immersion blender makes it smooth. Coconut milk rounds it out, and lime juice, soy sauce and fish sauce balance the squash's sweetness. It takes about an hour and serves four.

The dumplings brown in a skillet first, so their bottoms turn golden and crisp before they finish in the soup; you can also cook them straight in the pot. Serve right away, with scallions, chile crisp and sesame. The soup keeps three days without the dumplings. Our note: the recipe suggests pork or chicken gyoza, so we would use chicken or vegetable dumplings, and use the coconut milk, not the cream option, with chicken broth. Some kosher homes keep fish and meat apart, so vegetable broth or leaving out the fish sauce also works.

FASHION

A devoted pants girl tries skirts, and styles them like trousers

Pernille Teisbaek has always been a pants girl: jeans, low-waisted trousers, oversized sweats. Prada's spring 2027 show, built around 63 skirts, and Matthieu Blazy's spring 2027 Chanel collection changed her mind. Her trick is to style a skirt the way she would her favourite trousers: nothing too precious or overly put together, and not necessarily worn with heels. Contrast and menswear touches keep it relaxed.

She shows four looks. A knit skirt with a polo and a pop of red. An embellished skirt dressed down with a simple cashmere knit, loafers and a chain belt. A fitted leather skirt with a chunky knit and boots in winter, or a snug leather jacket for a night out. And a stretch poplin skirt she can bike in, worn with flat boots and a track jacket.

THE TOWN

ON THE TOWN

The Royal Agricultural Winter Fair

Sun Nov 8, 9 a.m.–6 p.m. (runs Nov 6–15) at Exhibition Place. The Royal is back for its 104th year with agriculture, food and horses. There is a petting farm, border collies herding sheep and SuperDogs in the Animal Theatre, a butter sculpture display, a new Holiday Market, and chefs teaching recipes daily at the Chef's Table. Sunday after Jonah's 12:55 swim works well.

The National Women's Show

Sun Nov 8, 10 a.m.–5 p.m. (also Fri–Sat) at Metro Toronto Convention Centre (South Building). A weekend of shopping with fashion shows on the main stage, including one featuring Canadian designers from the Canada Fashion Network. There is a Beauty & Fashion Zone, an Artisans' Market, free makeovers, and chefs cooking quick dishes on the Kitchen Inspiration Stage. Saturday closes at 6, so Sunday is the easier day.

Powder pink is the new white shirt

Julia Storm traces the trend to the powder pink Charvet button-down in Matthieu Blazy's Chanel debut. At London fashion week it was worn under a structured blazer with tights; in New York it was brighter, tucked into tie-dyed denim with stacked necklaces; in Milan it was tucked into statement skirts.

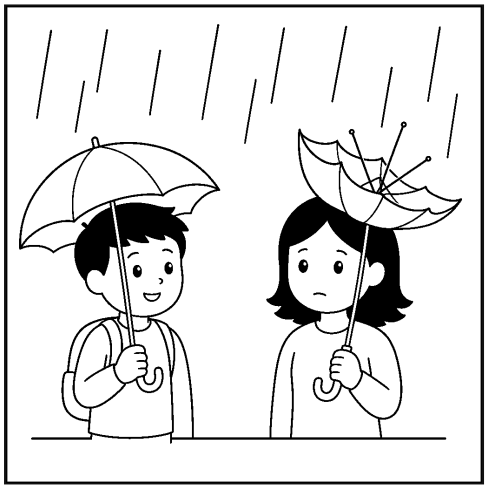

PUZZLES

Tuesday night: the forecast says heavy rain is coming Wednesday night and Thursday.

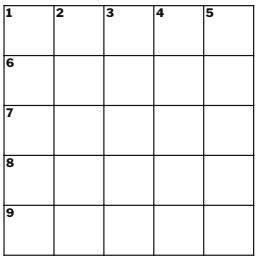

Umbrella roll call. Most of the squad is not fit for duty.

Thursday morning: the one good umbrella already has an owner.

DEAR TIMES

It is 21 degrees in November. Do I put the winter coats back?

Dear Times, Last week I dug out the coats, the mittens and the good boots. This morning the forecast says 21°C this afternoon, and my son wants to wear shorts to school. By Saturday it is supposed to be 10. Do I pack everything away again, or leave the whole closet on the front hall floor until the weather decides?

— Overdressed, Toronto

Dear Reader, Leave the coats where they are. Today is a gift, not a new season: rain is very likely Wednesday night and Thursday, and Saturday's high is near 10 for the 1:30 hockey game. Let the shorts happen today if the school allows, put a sweater in the bag for the ride home, and keep the umbrellas by the door for Wednesday.
