DAILY BRIEF — ZORAH'S DAILY HOME

YOUR DAY

A full school day with chicken fingers, then a short Friday before the long weekend

Tishrei 27 · chicken fingers, potato wedges and veggie sticks at RHA · sunny and cool this morning, about 19°C by mid-afternoon.

Zorah, today is a regular full day at RHA, with no early dismissal and no Jonah events on the calendar. Lunch is chicken fingers with potato wedges and veggie sticks, the last Week 1 hot lunch before the long weekend.

It is a cool, clear start, about 10°C at 7 a.m. and feeling closer to 7°C, so a light jacket for the walk in makes sense. Sunshine all day takes it to about 19°C around 3 p.m., with almost no chance of rain.

Tomorrow is the short day: Shabbat Bereshit, 3:15 dismissal and candles at 6:26.

Saturday has hockey from 10:30 to 2:30 and the sleepover at Stone's from 5, and Shabbat ends at 7:25. Sunday brings the 12:55 swim and Rosh Chodesh Cheshvan, and Monday is Thanksgiving, with no school.

LESLEY CHESTERMAN

Lesley Chesterman baked four Thanksgiving pies side by side, and sugar pumpkin won

The Montreal food writer used one recipe and swapped in sugar pumpkin, butternut, acorn squash and sweet potato to see which made the best pie.

With Thanksgiving a week away, Montreal food writer Lesley Chesterman ran a test for her Radio-Canada segment "Les Testeuses": she baked pies from the same recipe, from her book Chez Lesley, and changed only the base. She tried sugar pumpkin, butternut squash, acorn squash and sweet potato. To make each purée she halved the squash, roasted it cut side down at 400°F until a knife slid through, peeled it, and blended it in a food processor.

Sugar pumpkin came first. Butternut was close but had less flavour, acorn tasted a little more like squash, and sweet potato made a denser, less custardy pie. Her other lesson was about the shell: bake it blind, and skip store-bought crusts, which tend to crack and let the filling run underneath. If a homemade crust cracks, she patches it with a loose flour-and-water paste and bakes it about three minutes more.

ELLE CANADA

COS opened its fall show with a long maxi coat and a soft sweater tied at the waist

COS showed its fall and winter collection at New York Fashion Week in September, its fifth show there in a row. Joanna Fox of ELLE Canada describes long coats, close tailoring and fluid dresses with dropped waists and uneven hems, a nod to the 1920s. The colours stay quiet: black, navy, cool grey and soft neutrals, with some deep purple.

The COS design director told Fox her favourite piece is the coat from the first look, a plain maxi coat worn with a soft sweater tied around the waist. She says the coat itself is classic, and it is the length and the cut that make it feel current. This season the brand also added embroidery and fringe, which she says makes the clothes feel a little more dressed up.

THE TOWN

ON THE TOWN

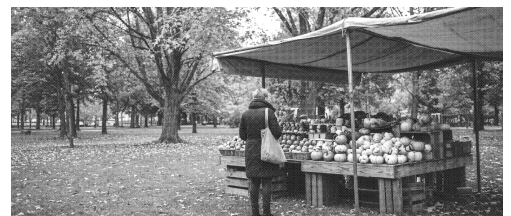

Leslieville Farmers' Market, Thanksgiving Sunday

Sunday, Oct. 11, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Greenwood Park, Leslieville. The Sunday market has farm produce, flowers and food vendors, plus live music from Good P.R. and a community mural with artist Jordan Dolman this week. It is the day before Thanksgiving, so it is a good place to find a sugar pumpkin for pie. The park season ends Oct. 25, and the market moves indoors in November.

Toronto Sunday Market: Thanksgiving Market

Sunday, Oct. 11, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at The Parkdale Hall, Parkdale. A one-day indoor market of local makers and food vendors, set up for the long weekend, with host gifts and things for the holiday table. The organizers ask people to reserve a spot online. It is family friendly, and pets are welcome.

Shay Ristorante, named for its chef's daughter, is new in Rosedale

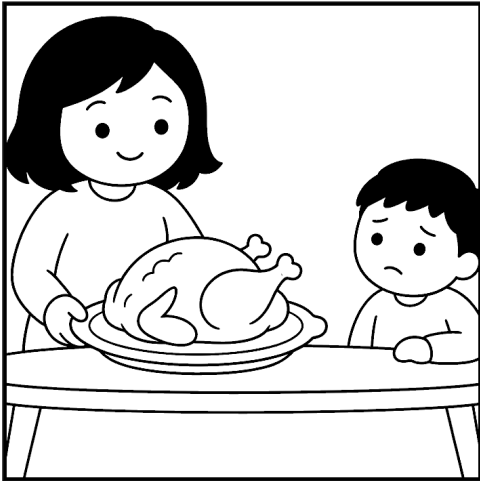

Chef Justin Friedlich spent almost ten years at Buca Yorkville before his first restaurant, named after his daughter, which was set to open Oct. 1. The menu includes tajarin al pomodoro, a crudo cart brought to the table, and a gelato made with Sicilian olive oil. It is open for dinner Monday through Saturday.

Event details can change; check the listing before going.

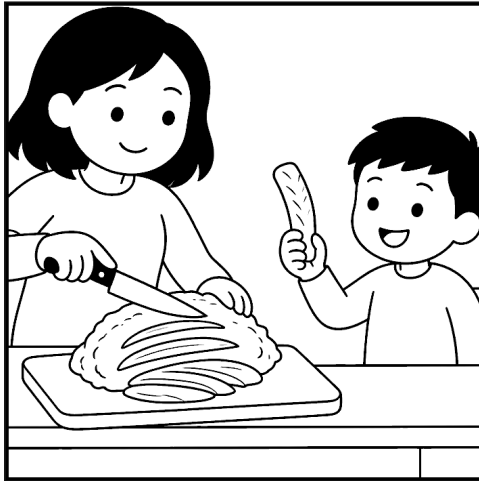

PUZZLES

Thanksgiving is Monday, and Zorah has found the biggest turkey in the store.

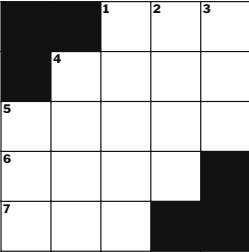

Monday dinner: one whole roast turkey, one reviewer who had chicken fingers at school on Thursday.

The turkey is served in the only shape that passed review.

DEAR TIMES

Should a Shabbat dinner have more courses than a school lunch?

Dear Times, Friday's school lunch is challah, grilled cheese, wraps, fries, soup and salad. That is six things. I was planning a quiet Shabbat dinner before a long weekend, but now I am worried my son will come home at 3:15, look at the table, and ask why school served more food. Do I have to match it?

— Outnumbered by the Cafeteria, Toronto

Dear Reader, You do not have to match it. School is feeding a whole building of children; you are feeding a family that has hockey at 10:30 the next morning. Light the candles at 6:26, put out the challah, and let the soup and one good main do the work. If he counts courses, count the dessert twice.
