YOUR DAY

The calendar is empty; two household items are still open

No events were returned through Sunday. The menu assignment and the Toyota repair call are the useful updates today.

Zorah, the connected calendar views show no events today through Sunday. The available Google and Outlook feeds do not identify a separate Zorah calendar, so this is a report from Shawn's primary and the shared views that are connected.

The Rosh Hashanah second-night menu assignment is matza ball soup and apple cake dessert. The RAV4 hail assessment is complete, and the remaining update is Toyota's repair plan and time slot.

INTERESTS

RECOMMENDED · COOKING

Bake apples with honey and pomegranate

A Rosh Hashanah dessert built around cored apples, pomegranate seeds, and honey.

Kosher Create's recipe fills cored apples with pomegranate seeds, almond butter, honey, cinnamon, and almond flakes. The apples bake covered for 45 minutes and uncovered for 15 minutes at 350 F, so the centre softens while the fruit keeps its shape.

RECOMMENDED · FASHION

Fall dressing gets roomier and brighter

The useful part of Vogue's fall 2026 trend report is practical: try a looser suit or jacket, then add one strong colour rather than changing everything.

Royal purple, cobalt blue, and peach are the standout suggestions. A scarf, knit, or bag can bring in one of them without changing the whole wardrobe.

Relaxed tailoring, layering, Art Deco details, and richer florals also appear in the report.

DEAR TIMES

Should soup or apple cake come first?

Dear Times, I have been assigned matza ball soup and apple cake dessert for the Rosh Hashanah second-night menu. I can make both, but I keep treating the cake as the important part because it has a clearer finish. Is it acceptable to plan dessert before soup?

— Trying to Sequence Dinner, Toronto

Dear Trying, Start with the soup because it has more steps and sets the timing for the meal. Write down the cake plan after that so the dessert still gets its proper place without running the kitchen.

PUBLIC NOTICE: CALENDAR

The connected views report no events through Sunday. Residents may continue with their actual plans, provided they do not add fictional appointments to this paper.

KITCHEN SAFETY REMINDER

When baking apples, keep the pan, the timer, and the recipe in the same room. Pomegranate seeds are not a substitute for a timer.
