VOL. 1 — SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 2026 — TORONTO, ONTARIO — AS OF 4:57 A.M. EST

DAILY BRIEF — ZORAH'S DAILY HOME

YOUR DAY

An extra hour, a 12:55 swim, and a mild, mostly sunny Sunday

Cheshvan 21 · Clocks went back overnight · High near 16°C · Sunset 5:08 p.m. · Daily brief at sdltor.github.io/household-groceries/

Zorah, the clocks went back one hour overnight, so check the oven, the microwave and the car. It is a cold start: about 5°C at 7 a.m., feeling closer to 2°C, with the sun up at 6:53 on the new clock. It warms to about 14°C by noon and near 16°C by early afternoon, partly cloudy, with light winds and a rain chance of 3% or less.

The Halloween sleepover wraps up this morning; the end time on the calendar is a placeholder, so pickups are whenever you all agree. Jonah swims at 12:55, and it is about 14°C and dry for the walk in and out. Sunset comes at 5:08, an hour earlier on the clock than yesterday, so the evening will feel long.

This week runs mild, in the high teens through Thursday, with showers likely Thursday. Friday is the first early Shabbat: 2:30 dismissal and candles at 4:44. Your Daily brief is at sdltor.github.io/household-groceries/.

COOKING

Swiss onion soup: French onion's richer cousin, with stout and a pound of Gruyère

Liz Cook's Serious Eats recipe whisks cheese into the broth, then broils more on top

Liz Cook calls it “French onion soup, but make it filthy rich.” Start with 2¼ pounds of thinly sliced onions in half a stick of butter, soft and starting to brown after about 15 minutes, then low and slow for about 45 minutes more until deep golden. If they start to scorch, add a tablespoon of water and scrape. More butter and half a cup of flour go in, then a 12-ounce bottle of dark stout, then the stock, salt, pepper and a bay leaf, and it simmers about 15 minutes until it thickens.

Here is the Swiss part: a cup and a half of shredded Gruyère is whisked into the soup a handful at a time until it melts into the broth. Ladle it into six ovenproof bowls, top each with two slices of baguette and more cheese, and broil for a minute or two until bubbly. Chives on top. It takes about 1 hour 40 minutes, mostly onion time. Our note: as written it uses chicken and beef stock with butter and cheese; for a dairy meal, swap in vegetable stock (our swap, not tested by Serious Eats).

Nine catwalk tricks you can borrow this week from the closet you already have

The autumn/winter 2026 collections are finally in stores, but Chloe Mac Donnell says many of the ideas cost nothing. Collars come half tucked, half untucked, as at Bottega Veneta and Jil Sander. Trousers go into boots: Chloé tucked jeans and leather trousers into over-the-knee boots, while Celine and Bottega Veneta stuffed tailored trousers loosely into ankle boots. Givenchy even showed a white shirt worn backwards.

Bored of your winter coat? Add coloured gloves; Polo Ralph Lauren paired emerald and marigold with charcoal coats, and Balenciaga showed opera gloves in cacao and teal. Try a big, jangly necklace over a coat, as at Celine; a cummerbund over a shirt or trench, as at Valentino; or a “personality skirt”, like Tory Burch's shiny patent one, with a plain jumper on top and the sleeves rolled up.

RECOMMENDED

Jacquard without the sofa look: let one woven piece be the star

Jacquard's pattern is woven into the cloth, not printed, which is why it can look like upholstery. Natalia Trejo's fix is balance: let the jacquard piece be the star and keep the rest quiet. Wear a statement blazer with a white tee and straight-leg denim, or a jacquard miniskirt with a fitted knit and sleek ankle boots.

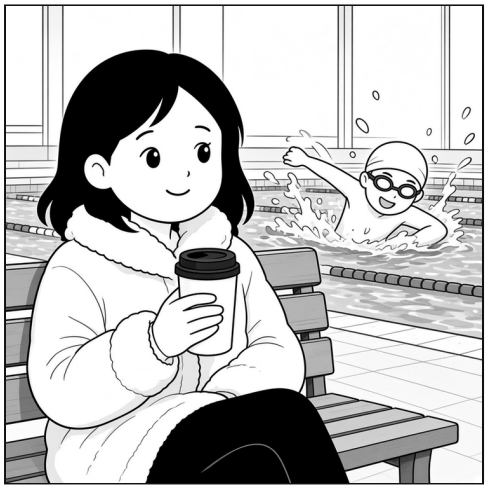

PUZZLES

The clocks gave everyone an extra hour. The sleepover crew used it to wake up early.

Breakfast service: pancakes for the whole sleeping-bag brigade.

12:55 p.m.: Jonah swims laps. You finally get that extra hour, poolside.

DEAR TIMES

The clocks gave us an extra hour. The sleepover kids took it.

Dear Times, Last night we hosted a Halloween sleepover. I went to bed thinking the clocks going back meant a lovely, long Sunday morning. Instead, a living room full of boys in sleeping bags was wide awake before the sun, and they all wanted pancakes. Is the extra hour a myth?

— Up Before Sunrise, Toronto

Dear Reader, Not a myth, just delayed. Children's bodies don't read clocks, so they woke at their usual time, which is now an hour earlier on the kitchen clock. Feed them, get everyone packed and home, and send Jonah off to his 12:55 swim. The extra hour is yours this afternoon, poolside or on the couch. Sunset is at 5:08 now, so tonight will feel long. Let it, and go to bed early.
