DAILY BRIEF — ZORAH'S DAILY HOME

YOUR DAY

Rosh Chodesh Kislev begins with pasta, garlic knots and a mild 15°

Cheshvan 30 · Toldot week · Daily brief at sdltor.github.io/household-groceries/

Zorah, today is the first of two days of Rosh Chodesh Kislev, marked on the school calendar as Cheshvan 30. Lunch is pasta with garlic knots, salad and milk.

Toronto gets a mix of sun and cloud and a high of 15°C, well above the normal of 8. The wind is the thing to dress for: southwest at 20 km/h gusting to 40 this morning, swinging northwest at 30 gusting to 50 near noon. Tonight turns partly cloudy and clears near midnight, with a low of 4.

Wednesday is Kislev 1, the second day of Rosh Chodesh, and Remembrance Day, with the Grade 8 ceremony at school. The week cools after that, to 8°C on Thursday and 7°C on Friday with a chance of showers or flurries. Friday brings the 2:30 dismissal, progress reports and candles at 4:36. The Daily brief at sdltor.github.io/household-groceries/ keeps the running household list.

COOKING

French onion soup, folded into a stuffing with Gruyère inside and on top

Serious Eats dries the bread in a slow oven, caramelizes the onions for up to an hour, and splits the cheese two ways

Serious Eats' French onion stuffing, developed by Julia Levy Freeman and published Thursday, starts with a pound and a half of white sandwich bread cut into cubes and dried at 250°F for about an hour, rather than relying on stale bread. Two pounds of yellow onions cook slowly in butter until deeply caramelized, 45 minutes to an hour, then a splash of dry sherry, parsley and thyme go in.

The cheese does two jobs. Cubed Gruyère is folded through so it melts into pockets, and shredded Gruyère goes on top after the covered bake for a golden lid, like the soup. The recipe calls for beef or chicken stock. Our note for a kosher kitchen, not the recipe's: with butter and Gruyère, use vegetable stock and serve it at a dairy meal.

FASHION

Paris is wearing stand collars, chocolate brown and flat knee-high boots

Charlie Teather's list for Who What Wear opens with stand collars, the more structured sibling of last season's funnel neck, which stand up against the neck instead of wrapping loosely. She follows with sheer skirts worn over chunky knits and boots, and flat knee-high boots with jeans, minis or flowing midis.

Colour runs to deep chocolate brown, paired with reds, purples and cream, and to plum in accessories for anyone who finds bright purple too much. Ponchos are back as a throw-on layer, midi sweater dresses go with loafers or flat boots, leather trousers move to a kick-flare, and shaggy shearling coats are outselling faux fur. With gusts to 50 km/h near noon today, the stand collar is the practical pick.

ON THE TOWN

Eaton Centre lights its 114-foot tree

Thu Nov 12, 6:00 p.m. at CF Toronto Eaton Centre. The tree marks its tenth year at the mall, and the lighting ceremony is free; it shows through the multi-level atriums (Curiocity).

Toronto Antiquarian Book Fair

Fri Nov 13 to Sun Nov 15 at OCAD University Waterfront. The 54th fair brings Canadian and international dealers in rare books, maps, prints, manuscripts and photographs. Hours: Friday 5–9 p.m., Saturday 10:30–5:30, Sunday noon–5 (ILAB).

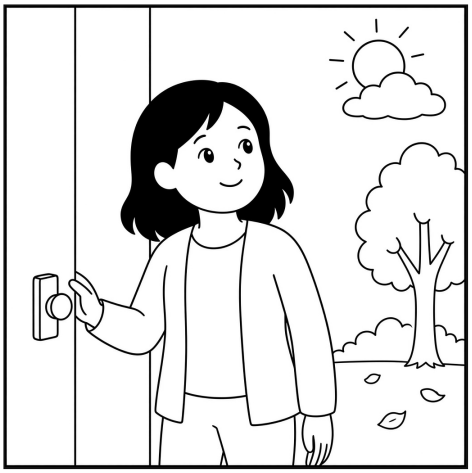

RECOMMENDED

Strauss's Four Last Songs at Roy Thomson Hall, Thursday to Saturday

Soprano Rachel Willis-Sørensen sings Richard Strauss's Four Last Songs, written at the end of his life, with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra under music director Gustavo Gimeno. The program opens with "Nicht zu schnell," Colin Matthews's orchestration of a Mahler piano-quartet sketch, and closes with Beethoven's Fourth Symphony, according to the TSO.

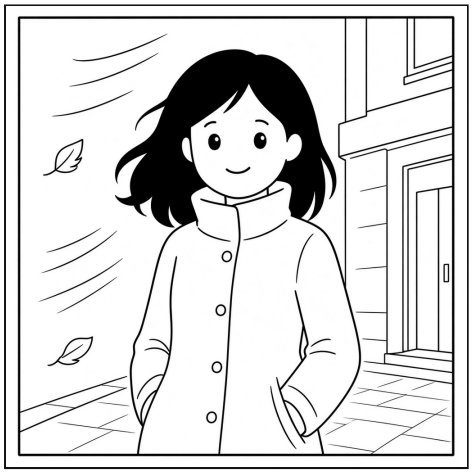

PUZZLES

Fifteen degrees, sun and cloud. Light layers.

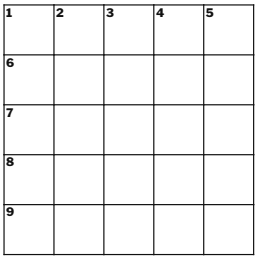

Near noon, the wind swings northwest and gusts to 50.

Paris calls it a stand collar. Toronto calls it a windbreak.

DEAR TIMES

Fifteen degrees in November: coat or no coat?

Dear Times, The forecast says 15°C today, which feels like a gift in November. Do I finally leave the heavy coat at home, or is there a catch?

— Tempted, Toronto

Dear Reader, The catch is the wind. Environment Canada has it southwest at 20 km/h gusting to 40 this morning, then northwest at 30 gusting to 50 near noon. Skip the heavy coat but take something with a collar that stands up, and a layer you can close. Save the warm one for Thursday and Friday, when highs drop to 8 and 7 with a chance of showers or flurries.
