VOL. 1 — TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13, 2026 — TORONTO, ONTARIO — AS OF 4:52 A.M. EDT

DAILY BRIEF — ZORAH'S DAILY HOME

YOUR DAY

School is back, pasta is on the menu, and the morning may start wet

Cheshvan 2 · RHA Week 2 lunches · High near 24°C with a 70% chance of morning showers · Daily brief at sdltor.github.io/household-groceries/

Zorah, Jonah is back at RHA after Thanksgiving Monday. Lunch today is pasta with garlic knots, salad, and milk – Week 2 on the school list – and the Hebrew date is Cheshvan 2.

The warm stretch continues into the afternoon, but Open-Meteo puts the rain chance near 70% around the morning commute, so a jacket for the school run is useful even if it clears later.

Looking ahead, Wednesday is sushi and edamame. Thursday is the Grade 8 CHAT tour with Chinese food. Friday is a 3:15 dismissal, the Early Years re-registration deadline, and Shabbat Noach with candles at 6:14. Jonah's exhibition hockey against the Flyers is Saturday at 1:30 at Bill Bolton; swimming returns Sunday at 12:55 at the Prosserman JCC, the same day Aliyah Day shows on the Jewish holidays list.

INTERESTS

CTV / MARY BERG

Mary Berg folds butternut squash and sage into a fall carbonara

Her CTV recipe crisps bacon, browns diced squash, then tosses spaghetti with egg yolks, pecorino, and pine nuts.

Mary Berg's fall carbonara keeps the bacon-and-egg backbone of the classic and adds 1-centimetre diced butternut squash, sage or rosemary, and toasted pine nuts. Total time on the page is about 1 hour 10 minutes for four servings.

She crisps four strips of diced bacon, browns the squash in the fat, then finishes spaghetti off the heat with egg yolks, pecorino, Parmigiano, parsley, and reserved pasta water so the sauce stays silky. Black pepper goes on top.

WHO WHAT WEAR

Kristen Nichols argues that fall 2026 knitwear is about pieces you keep reaching for: refined cashmere, classic cardigans, and streamlined zip-ups rather than novelty knits. She groups the season into mid-sleeve sweaters, V-necks, crewnecks, sleeveless turtlenecks, and collared styles.

A fine-knit cashmere sweater is cast as jeans-to-trousers versatile, and a cardigan as a light jacket on milder days or a layer under a heavier coat when it cools. Shopping prices are left out here; the useful part is the shape list.

Chatelaine's butternut squash ravioli lasagna for a make-ahead weeknight

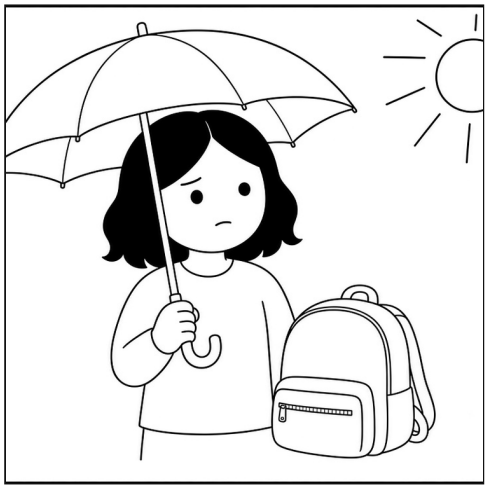

Tori Wesszer's Chatelaine lasagna swaps noodle sheets for cheese-and-spinach ravioli under a blended butternut squash sauce, ricotta, spinach, and a sage–pine-nut panko crisp. Prep is about 15 minutes; total time about 1 hour 10 minutes for 6 to 8.

It is a different squash-and-sage pasta path from Berg's carbonara if you want something that can sit ready for the oven after a school day.

PUZZLES

Morning rain chance: jacket and umbrella go in with the pasta thermos.

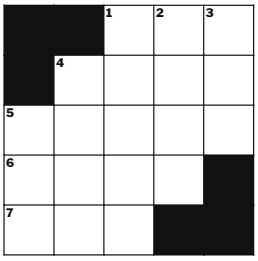

By midday the sun is out. The umbrella is still open.

The rain jacket becomes the picnic blanket.

DEAR TIMES

Do I send the rain jacket after a clear forecast?

Dear Times, This morning's forecast had a high chance of showers for the school run, so the rain jacket and umbrella went into the backpack with the pasta thermos. By lunch the sun was out and it was nearly 24 degrees. Tomorrow looks cooler and drier. Do I keep packing the full rain kit all week, or trust the afternoon clearing?

— Overprepared, Toronto

Dear Reader, Pack for the commute you actually have, not the warmest hour of the day. If the morning still shows rain, send the jacket; leave the heavy umbrella home when the afternoon high is clear and mild. Check tomorrow's morning hour before you decide – one warm clear stretch does not rewrite the rest of the week.

WANTED

Morning Rain Interpreter
Needed to translate a 70% shower chance at 7 a.m. into a yes/no jacket decision before the backpack zips. Must ignore the afternoon high.

Pasta-Day Thermometer
Wanted: someone who can tell when garlic knots and salad need a thermos and when they will be fine at room temperature.

FOR SALE

Slightly Damp Compact Umbrella
Opened once under full sun at dismissal. Never used in rain. Includes one puzzled expression.

Rain Jacket, Picnic Edition
Spent Tuesday as a blanket under an empty lunch thermos. Still waterproof. Available for actual rain Wednesday.
