DAILY BRIEF — ZORAH'S DAILY HOME

YOUR DAY

A clear warm-up Sunday, Jonah's 12:55 swim, and Aliyah Day on the calendar

Cheshvan 7 · About 4°C at dawn, high near 17°C, dry · Daily brief at sdltor.github.io/household-groceries/

Zorah, Toronto is starting cold and clear – about 4°C before sunrise, feeling closer to 1°C in the wind – then climbing toward 17°C with almost no chance of rain. That is a big swing from yesterday's frosty hockey morning.

Jonah's swim is at 12:55 at the Prosserman JCC (through 1:25). Today is also Aliyah Day School Observance on the Israel holidays calendar, and RHA marks Cheshvan 7 with Week 1 lunches still running.

Looking ahead, Monday brings breakfast-for-lunch and the Grades 3–8 cross-country meet, picture days land Wednesday and Thursday, Friday dismisses at 3:15 with candles at 6:03 for Shabbat Lech-Lecha, and Saturday's hockey flips earlier: Sabres at Penguins, exhibition #3, 11:30 at Bill Bolton.

INTERESTS

CTV / MARY BERG

Mary Berg twists gemelli through a sausage vodka sauce and crispy herby parm

Her Oct. 16 recipe toasts panko with Parmigiano for a crunchy finish over gemelli, spicy sausage, and a cream-tomato sauce.

Mary Berg starts with the topping: olive oil, panko, and Parmigiano Reggiano toasted until golden, then cooled with parsley and basil so it stays crisp.

Spicy Italian sausage is crumbled and cooked through, then set aside while gemelli boils. Butter, shallot, and garlic meet tomato paste; vodka deglazes the pan before cream goes in. Pasta and sausage return with pasta water, more cheese, and basil, then get the herby parm at the table.

WHO WHAT WEAR

Audry Hiaoui maps fall coats from H&M car coats to Toteme and Rue Sophie

Audry Hiaoui writes that she used to overlook bundling up, then made a point of investing in cold-weather outerwear. With temperatures dropping, she curated coats for every budget – trenches, funnel-neck wool, and faux fur.

Editor favorites run from Apparis and Rue Sophie to viral COS shapes; more accessible picks include H&M car coats, Zara high-collar trenches, and Quince cashmere wraps. A useful read before Friday's cooler candle lighting.

DEAR TIMES

Do I pack the winter coat for a 17-degree swim day?

Dear Times, This morning was about four degrees when I checked the forecast, but the high is headed for seventeen and Jonah has swim at 12:55. I keep reaching for the heavy coat out of habit after yesterday's cold rink. Am I allowed to leave it home, or is that how you end up shivering in a damp hoodie in the JCC lobby?

— Half-Zipped, Toronto

Dear Reader, Leave the parka. Bring a light layer and a dry hoodie in the swim bag for the walk out. The lobby will feel cooler than the sidewalk, but not coat weather — and you already know how heavy a wet towel bag gets without adding winter wool.
