Zorah, Monday opens the first regular school week after the holidays. RHA marks Tishrei 24 with Breakfast for Lunch – French toast and a fruit cup – and Early Years re-registration begins today. There are no Jonah events on the calendar today.

Looking ahead: Wednesday has a 2:30 dismissal for teacher PD, Saturday brings Jonah-Hockey and a sleepover at Stone, and next Monday, Oct. 12, is Thanksgiving with no school. The full week is below. Daily brief: <https://sdlitor.github.io/household-groceries/>

KITCHEN • FALL MONDAY

Golden squash soup with a roasted date-and-garlic confit

Gitty Silberstein (The Jewish Press via Kosher.com, Oct 1) – a slow-simmered, Thai-inspired pot with no meat or dairy, for a crisp first school week.

Gitty Silberstein's Hearty Yellow Squash Soup, which The Jewish Press ran on Oct. 1 from Kosher.com, suits a Monday after a long holiday stretch. Onions, leek and garlic soften in oil, sliced yellow squash cooks until lightly golden, and then celery and an onion soup mix go in with enough water to cover. The pot simmers, covered, for about an hour and a half before it is blended smooth.

The finish is what the recipe calls a Sunset Confit: garlic cloves, scallions, jalapeño and chopped dates baked in oil with a pinch of kosher salt and red pepper flakes for 15 to 17 minutes. Spooned over the soup, it brings sweetness and a little heat. Nothing in the ingredient list is meat or dairy, so it sits easily beside any dinner this week, and it makes a calm warm-up for Thanksgiving on Oct. 12.

Higher necks, deeper Vs: fall's knitwear does the talking

Who What Wear's Melissa Epifano (4 Oct 2026) rounds up eight knitwear trends from the autumn/winter 2026 runways: the ultra-high neck, a turtleneck taken higher and slouchier (she points to Gabriela Hearst and Icicle); asymmetric seams and hems; the return of the chunky-knit cardigan, sleeker this time at Magda Butrym and Altuzarra; maximalist knits; exaggerated V-necklines at Zimmermann, Nina Ricci, Prada and Missoni; knitted vests; lace-inspired stitchwork; and striped knits.

For minimalists, she notes, the ultra-high neck gets its drama from height rather than colour or pattern. On a clear Monday that starts near 11°C and tops out near 15°C, a high-neck knit or a chunky cardigan over a shirt is an easy layer for the school run, and a knitted vest carries into Wednesday's warmer low 20s. THE TOWN

ON THE TOWN

Fall Harvest Market at Sugar Beach

Fri Oct 9, 5–10 p.m.; Sat–Sun Oct 10–11, noon–10 p.m.; Mon Oct 12, noon–8 p.m. at Sugar Beach · waterfront. A Thanksgiving-weekend market with local vendors, harvest-inspired food and drinks, pumpkin carving, apple bobbing, games, an artisanal market and live music. Sunday after the 12:55–1:25 swim, or Thanksgiving Monday, are the easy windows.

PumpkinFest Toronto

Sat Oct 10 – Mon Oct 12, 10:00 a.m.–6:00 p.m. at Downsview Park · Festival Terrace. A pumpkin patch, midway rides, inflatables, an inflatable corn maze, stage shows and food trucks. Organizers say 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. is the busiest stretch; Thanksgiving Monday, a no-school day with nothing else on Jonah's calendar, is the clear window.

RECOMMENDED • KITCHEN SHELF

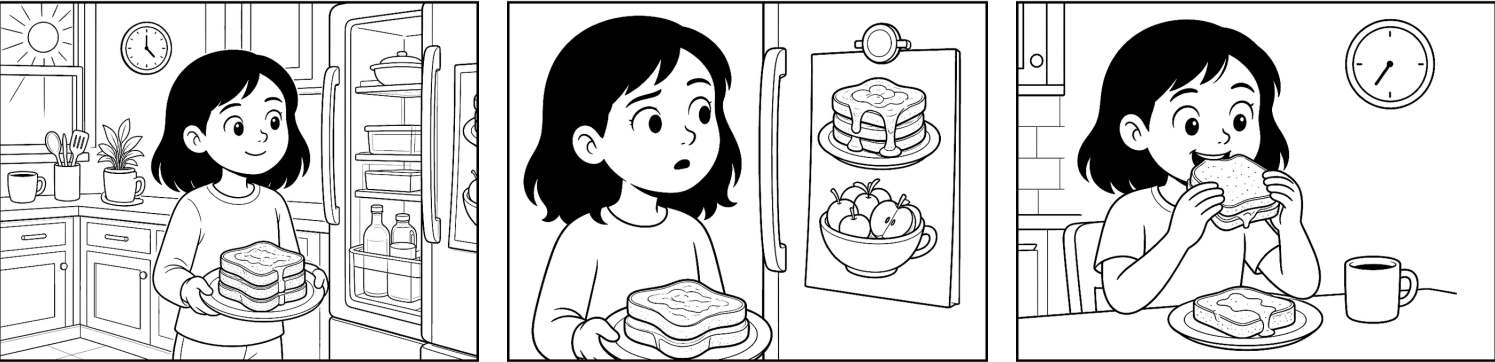

A whole book about the Shabbat pot

With Bereshit this Shabbat and the Torah starting over, Joel Haber's Cholent is a fitting shelf pick: a history of the Shabbat stew that follows the pot through Jewish migrations, from the earliest known version in ancient Mesopotamia to the many names it took along the way – cholent, hamin, skhena, khalebibi and more.

The publisher says the book includes nearly 30 tried and tested recipes, with a foreword by Adeena Sussman. It is due Oct. 30, 2026, so it is a pre-order pick for the long fall Shabbat afternoons ahead. No prices in this paper.

Event details can change; check the listing before going.

DEAR TIMES

French toast at seven, French toast at noon

Dear Times, I made French toast at seven. Then I saw the school lunch board: Breakfast for Lunch, French toast at noon. Is it wrong to want a sandwich for breakfast?

– A Reader in Toronto

Dear Reader, Not wrong, just fair. The French toast and fruit cup have the noon shift at school, so the sandwich and the coffee take the morning at home. Save the syrup for Thanksgiving Monday, when there is no lunch board at all.
