VOL. 1 — FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23, 2026 — TORONTO, ONTARIO — AS OF 4:56 A.M. EDT

DAILY BRIEF — ZORAH'S DAILY HOME

YOUR DAY

A 3:15 dismissal, grilled cheese for lunch, and candles at 6:03

Cheshvan 12 · About 6°C at drop-off, clouding over, high near 13°C, dry · Daily brief at sdltor.github.io/household-groceries/

Zorah, it is a mild, dry start in Toronto – about 8°C before dawn and feeling closer to 4°C, easing to about 6°C at drop-off under clear skies with a light breeze. Clouds move in by mid-morning and stay, and the afternoon tops out near 13°C right around pickup. The sun sets at 6:21.

RHA lets out at 3:15 today for Shabbat Lech-Lecha, and Friday lunch is soup, fries, grilled cheese, wraps and salad, with challah. That leaves just under three hours between pickup and candles at 6:03 – a good afternoon for a loaf that went in the oven early.

The weekend stays grey and dry. Jonah's 11:30 hockey at Bill Bolton on Saturday is a practice, per the calendar note, and Shabbat ends at 7:03. Sunday brings his 12:55 swim at Prosserman JCC, a high near 17°C and the start of Week 2 lunches; next Friday is another 3:15 dismissal, with candles at 5:53.

RECOMMENDED COOKING

Pati Jinich's orange and marzipan challah

A filled, braided Shabbat loaf from Pati's Mexican Table, adapted from Uri Scheft

This loaf comes from the "For Love and Family" episode of Pati's Mexican Table, in which Jinich reconnects with her Jewish heritage in Mexico City alongside historian Mónica Unikel-Fasja. The dough is a classic enriched challah – flour, yeast, eggs, sugar, butter – perfumed with two tablespoons of orange blossom water, and it rises for about an hour.

The filling is marzipan worked together with sugar, butter, a little flour and orange zest. The dough is cut into six pieces, each rolled into a long strip, spread with filling and rolled up to enclose it, then braided into two three-strand loaves. After a second rise and an egg wash, they bake at 350°F for about 25 minutes, rotated halfway, and stay soft for about five days in an airtight container.

Fall 2026's biggest trends play against expectations

Jaclyn Alexandra Cohen's round-up starts with "waistmaxxing": cummerbunds, an opera scarf knotted at the waist, even double-waisted pants from Róhe. Plaid gets dressed up in chiffons and silks at Chanel, Dries Van Noten, Celine, Tory Burch and Chloé, while an "undone lady" look borrows Prada's coffee-stained cuff and Jil Sander's sliced-waist pencil skirt.

The rest of the list: pops of red, knits for evening (a Fair Isle set at Dries, a balaclava at Chloé), tuxedo dressing for daytime, and drop-waist dresses from Simone Rocha, Tory Burch and Matthieu Blazy's Chanel. The common thread is polish with a twist – classic pieces worn slightly off their usual script.

RECOMMENDED

Chili crisp yogurt chicken, with rice that crisps in the pan

Boneless thighs are coated in yogurt and chili crisp and roasted at 425° for 25 to 30 minutes; then cooked rice goes into the pan juices for another 12 to 15 minutes, until it lands "somewhere between chewy-fluffy steamed grains and a freshly toasted pita chip." A lime-yogurt cabbage slaw with red onion and cilantro finishes it. Firkser suggests Lao Gan Ma, which keeps the heat gentle; it serves four in about 50 minutes – an easy Sunday supper.

DEAR TIMES

Pickup at 3:15, candles at 6:03 — can the challah make both?

Dear Times, Friday dismissal is at 3:15, candles are at 6:03, and I have a braided challah that still needs its egg wash. Do I bake before pickup and risk the timing, or after and risk the table? Either way, someone is coming home hungry after a grilled cheese lunch.

— Racing the Oven, Toronto

Dear Reader, Bake before. Pati Jinich’s marzipan challah needs about 25 minutes at 350°F, so a loaf in by two is cooling on the rack before you grab the keys — mitt optional. The drive is dry and about 13°C, and anyone who had grilled cheese for lunch will ask about dinner the moment the door shuts. Soup and challah buy you until candles.
