DAILY BRIEF — ZORAH'S DAILY HOME

YOUR DAY

Pizza day at school on the week's coldest morning

Tishrei 25 · pizza, garlic knots, fries, salad and milk at RHA · near 3°C at dawn, sunny and about 15°C by late afternoon · 2:30 dismissal tomorrow.

Zorah, this is the coldest morning in the five-day forecast, with Open-Meteo calling for a low near 3°C around 7 a.m. Tonight stays much milder, and Wednesday reaches the low 20s.

At school it is pizza day. RHA's Week 1 lunch board lists pizza with garlic knots, fries, salad and milk.

Tomorrow is the next change to the usual school day: dismissal is at 2:30 for teacher PD, and the RHA calendar marks it as a nursery full day.

The Week 2 lunch board takes over on Sunday. With no school on Thanksgiving Monday, the first Week 2 school lunch is pasta on Tuesday, Oct. 13.

BON APPÉTIT

Bon Appétit's cooking director salts a chicken ahead, roasts it hot and makes a wine gravy

From the magazine's Oct. 2 staff roundup: a whole chicken with lemon and garlic, pan gravy from white wine, and broth from the carcass the next day.

Bon Appétit cooking director Emma Laperuque roasted a whole chicken for the first time in years and described her method in the magazine's Oct. 2 staff roundup. She salted the bird and left it in the fridge for a few hours, a step she took from Kitty Cowles's cookbook. Then she rubbed it with olive oil, put lemon and garlic in the cavity, and roasted it at her oven's highest setting with convection on.

While the chicken rested, she deglazed the pan juices with white wine and simmered them into a tangy gravy, and she served it with a salad. The next day the carcass went into a pot of water with onion and ginger for broth. The leftover meat became a rice bowl, a sandwich, a daycare lunch and an afternoon snack. Her method uses olive oil and no butter, so there is no dairy in it, and one chicken is a smaller project than a turkey if Thanksgiving Monday is a small dinner.

WHO WHAT WEAR

Who What Wear's 11 fall outfits trade oversized layers for fitted pieces

Michelle Scanga, a contributing fashion editor at Who What Wear, published a list on Oct. 5 of 11 fall outfits to replace last year's usual combinations. Her main point is about fit. Oversize blazers with baggy jeans, and chunky sweaters with leggings, are giving way to fitted jackets, slim cardigans and straight-leg denim. Loose jeans are still around, but she pairs them with a collared knit or a silk button-down and sleeker shoes. She adds silk scarves and belts to finish the simpler looks.

The shoe changes are specific: loafers, ballet pumps, strappy heels and slim boots instead of chunky sneakers, clogs and ankle boots. Her pairings include a slim cardigan with straight jeans and ballet pumps, a knee-length skirt with a button-down and a leather jacket, and a button-down tucked into brown jeans with heels. She also replaces the classic flannel with a crisper plaid button-down worn with loose jeans and heels. She says none of the outfits require a new wardrobe.

THE TOWN

ON THE TOWN

JCC Fall Shuk

Sunday, Oct. 11, 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Prosserman JCC park, North York. The JCC's outdoor fall market brings together Toronto vendors selling art, pottery, clothing, jewelry and food, with an outdoor gallery from the B'Kef Collective. The program lists live music from the band King Harvest, belly dancing, a live chili demo, s'mores making and a kids' zone with inflatables. It is on the same JCC grounds as Jonah's 12:55 swim that day.

Harvest Café at Arcadia Earth

Fri Oct 9 to Mon Oct 12, noon to 5 p.m. at Arcadia Earth, downtown. Arcadia Earth is turning its marketplace into a fall café for the long weekend, with coffee and apple cider, live music and mini pumpkin painting for all ages. Free mini portraits are offered on Sunday and Monday. Entry to the café is a donated non-perishable food item, and donations go to Second Harvest.

DEAR TIMES

Can I set the Shabbat table on Thursday?

Dear Times, Candle lighting this Friday is at 6:26, and school lets out at 3:15 that day. I would like to set the table Thursday night, while I have time, and then not touch it for a day. Is that cheating?

— Early Setter, Toronto

Dear Reader, It isn't cheating. A set table keeps fine for a day, and Thursday night is when the time actually exists. Leave the challah and the flowers for Friday afternoon so there is still something to do when you get home.
